Who does Legal Aid's office help?

Our office in Clarksville helps mostly people who have low income or are 60 or older.

But there are some things we can help you with no matter how much money you have or how old you are, such as:

- We can help people with Fair Housing problems, and counseling for housing, Medicare and health problems.
- We can offer counseling if you have problems paying your FHA mortgage or need reverse mortgage counseling, or need counseling before and/or after you buy a home.
- We help people, regardless of age, who are being hurt or threatened by someone:
 - they are dating or used to date, or
 - are married to or used to be married to, or
 - are living with or were living with, or
 - have a child with, or
 - are related to or used to be related to by marriage, or
 - who has raped or threatened to rape them or
 - who has stalked them.

The Clarksville office helps people who live in Montgomery, Robertson, Dickson, Cheatham, Stewart, Houston and Humphreys Counties. Do you live somewhere else? See the back of this brochure to find out which office to call.

Legal Aid also has offices in:

Columbia
Cookeville
Gallatin
Murfreesboro
Nashville
Oak Ridge
Tullahoma

Each office helps low income people. But they have different guidelines about what kind of things they are staffed to handle. Call to find out if they can help you with information or a lawyer's advice and counsel.

Legal Aid does not allow anyone to be treated unfairly because of what nation they are from, what sex they are, what age they are, what race they are or because they have a disability.

Note: This pamphlet is not meant to take the place of legal advice. All cases are different and need individual attention.
