Government has taken too long on pollution clean-up

To the Editor:

Though long neglected, the Harpeth River is a tremendous potential asset to all of us living on or near its banks.

It has taken far too long to clean up the toxic chemicals that are polluting the Harpeth and creating an especially disturbing threat to our neighbors across the river on Daniels Drive.

We urge our members to attend the Aug. 7 hearing on the Egyptian Lacquer Manufacturing Co. cleanup, but we fail to understand why it has taken this long for government officials to address this problem.
