Bulldogs ice cold from behind the arc

Cumberland headed into the 2009-10 season with enough shooters to feel confident in scoring from 3-point range in each and every game, and the Bulldogs started the season that way, shooting 37 percent from behind the arc during the pre-conference schedule. But CU has been ice cold from 3-point range since the start of January, hitting just 19 percent (22-for-115) over the last 12 contests, including 0-for-23 over the last three outings. Simone Ryan's 3-pointer with 1:54 remaining in regulation against Lyon College on February 4 was CU's last make (and the team's final 3-point attempt in that contest). The Bulldogs are last in the TranSouth in 3-point shooting in conference games at 19 percent and rank dead last nationally in conference games in 3-point shooting as well (among 104 teams in Division I).

Brown misses game against Trevecca

Junior Keshia Brown, Cumberland's leading scorer at 12.3 points per game, turned her left ankle badly last Thursday at Blue Mountain and did not play in Saturday's rivalry game against Trevecca Nazarene. Brown tied her career-high with 20 points at Blue Mountain, just the second 20-point game of her career after she netted 20 at Bethel Univ. on January 18. The Clarksville, Tenn., native has scored in double figures in 11 of the last 15 games dating to December 2, averaging 13.6 points per contest during the stretch. In TranSouth action, the Clarksville HS product is posting 14.6 points per outing, eighth best in the league in conference play. She is shooting 43 percent from the field and 73 percent at the foul line in TranSouth action. Brown's only issue this season has been turnovers, a category in which she leads the Bulldogs with 64 overall, a little more than three per game.

Defense returns, but so does another close loss

After ranking in the Top 5 nationally in scoring defense for most of the season, Cumberland dropped to 12th in the country heading into Saturday's contest against Trevecca after allowing 89 points against both Freed-Hardeman and Blue Mountain. No team had scored more than 70 points against CU this season before FHU put up 89 on February 6, and Blue Mountain followed with another 89 last Thursday, making 13 3-pointers in the process, including nine in the first half. The Bulldogs defense returned in Saturday's 56-49 loss to Trevecca, limiting the Trojans to just 36 percent shooting overall, including 26 percent in the second half. Cumberland continues to lead the TranSouth in scoring defense, allowing 56.95 per game, and ranks 11th nationally heading into Monday's game against top-ranked Union, which ranks fourth in the country in scoring offense. The Bulldogs have allowed 60 points or less in 14 of the team's 21 contests this season, including five of the 11 TranSouth outings. Compare that with last year's club that allowed 70 points or more 16 times and gave up 100 on three separate occasions. CU ranks second in the TranSouth in field goal percentage defense at .372, tied for second in 3-point field goal percentage defense at .277, third in blocks per game with 3.62 and fourth in steals with 9.48. The seven-point loss to Trevecca was also chapter in a recurring theme for the Bulldogs this season, especially in TranSouth action. Cumberland has lost seven times this season by seven points or less, including five games from December 30-January 25. The Bulldogs dropped eight of 10 outings from December 30-January 25, with the average margin of defeat just 6.6 points (a grand total of 53 points). Five of the eight losses came against ranked foes, including the Univ. of the Cumberlands (67-65), Freed-Hardeman (59-53), Trevecca Nazarene (61-50), Bethel Univ. (70-65), and Union Univ. (69-63).

This year's first meeting

After falling behind by 16 points in the first half, Cumberland battled back to take the lead but fell just short in a 69-63 defeat against top-ranked Union on January 21 in Lebanon. Cumberland fell behind 30-14 in the first half but closed the gap with an 11-2 run late in the period and trailed just 37-31 at the break. The Bulldogs reeled off 10 straight points in the first four minutes of the second half to take their first lead at 43-41, capped by a 3-pointer from Brittany Cash. The game was nip-and-tuck the rest of the way, with CU pushing its edge to 52-48 with 9:28 remaining after a driving layup from Cash. But Union answered with a 14-3 spurt over the next three minutes to take control of the game, with Kaitlin early in the game, putting together a 16-7 run over eight minutes after the game was tied at seven. Ashley Lillard contributed six points during the run and Union hit a trio of 3-pointers to take a 30-14 advantage with 8:04 left in the first half. No. 1 Union has won seven straight over CU

Top-ranked and defending national champion Union University heads into Monday's contest with a current seven-game winning streak in the series with Cumberland after a 69-63 victory over the Bulldogs in Lebanon on January 21. Union holds a decisive 45-2 all-time series record against Cumberland, with the Bulldogs winning just once in the last 17 meetings. Cumberland picked fifth in preseason

The Cumberland women's basketball program was picked seventh in a vote of league coaches released during the TranSouth Conference Media Day in Jackson, Tenn. Defending national champion Union University was the unanimous choice as the top team in the conference. Union received all seven first-place votes and 63 points in the Preseason Coaches Poll, while Freed-Hardeman, Trevecca Nazarene and Bethel Univ. were unanimous choices as the Nos. 2, 3 and 4 teams in the league, respectively. Lyon College (33), Martin Methodist (26), Cumberland (25), Blue Mountain (12) and Mid-Continent (9) rounded out the preseason poll. At least one TranSouth Conference team has reached the NAIA championship game in each of the last five years, with a conference member winning the national title in four of the five seasons. Cumberland reached the title game in 2007 before falling to Lambuth Univ.
