Course Description

This meeting will employ both case presentation and panel discussion formats. Educational programming will include current concepts of diagnosis and treatment in head and neck medicine. New techniques and technology will be addressed, as well as outcomes of surgical techniques.

Course faculty is comprised of internationally recognized experts in academic otolaryngology. This meeting will provide an environment conducive to free exchange of experience and the sharing of clinical outcomes with the ultimate goal of advancing and improving patient care.

“The format allows for intelligent exchange of ideas. It’s great to be able to interact with experts.”

Purpose

The purpose of this program is to provide otolaryngologists an opportunity to review and update knowledge in general otolaryngology, laryngology, rhinology, head and neck surgery, and otology as well as allergy.

Objectives

After attending the educational sessions, each physician should be able to describe and discuss:

1. current practice management, including medical and surgical approaches
2. various protocols/procedures carried out in major medical teaching centers
3. the latest methods of diagnosis and treatment of the head and neck disease process
4. various approaches to the contemporary management of otolaryngologic disorders

“Superb opportunity for discussion, panelist interaction and audience participation.”

Target Audience

This program is designed for practicing otolaryngologists and associated health care professionals seeking the latest information in head and neck medicine as well as allergists.

Meeting Location

The Vanderbilt Otolaryngology Symposium is held in Vail, Colorado, where participants can take advantage of some of the world’s finest skiing. All components of the meeting will be held at The Lodge at Vail.

Lodging Reservations

The Vanderbilt Otolaryngology Symposium will be held at The Lodge at Vail. Reservations must be made directly with The Lodge by calling 877-LAV-ROCK. Please be sure to indicate that you are with the Vanderbilt group in order to benefit from group rates. The cut-off date for making reservations is December 17, 2009. You are encouraged to book early as the rooms fill very quickly. Please pay close attention to cancellation and early departure policies as outlined by the hotel.

George A. Sisson, MD 1920-2006

Dr. Sisson is recognized as a great leader in the field of otolaryngology. His students are today's leaders and continue his mission in the training and practice of head and neck surgery.

The Vanderbilt Bill Wilkerson Center

for Otolaryngology and Communication Sciences inhabits a comprehensive, state-of-the-art facility in Nashville, Tennessee. Over 400 full-time professionals serve the world of human communication. The Center educates approximately 130 graduate students, residents and fellows annually in highly competitive training programs. The Departments of Hearing & Speech and Otolaryngology consistently receive top national rankings; Audiology is ranked #1 by US News and World Report. The Bill Wilkerson research and education enterprise consists of over 40 grants totaling more than $7 million dollars annually. The Center benefits from five endowed Chairs: The Guy M. Maness Laryngology Chair, the Marc C. Smith Chair, the John and Carol Odess Chair, the Guy M. Maness Chair in Otolaryngology, and the Ingram Chair (rotating).
