TICUA
TENNESSEE INDEPENDENT COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES ASSOCIATION

Going off to college can be exciting – and a little scary.

It's nice to have someone who's been around awhile to help you get settled in a new place. That's where we come in. We're SunTrust, and we've been assisting college-bound students in Tennessee with their financial needs for years. We have a full array of loan products to help you – or your parents – pay for your college education with benefits that save you money right from the start. We offer a 1% up-front origination fee reduction, and you can qualify for a 3% principal reduction after 30 months of on-time payments.* Ask at your school's Financial Aid Office for more information about SunTrust education loans, or call us at 1-800-457-8243.

For added savings, SunTrust also offers students free checking with no monthly maintenance fees. Stop by any SunTrust branch to apply.

Greetings

Since 1794, Tennessee's private colleges have been serving the Volunteer State.

Today, the Tennessee Independent Colleges and Universities Association's (TICUA) 36 member institutions educate over 55,000 students and employ over 28,000 faculty and staff.

Students are the focus of TICUA member institutions. TICUA members educate not only Tennesseans, but students from all over the world. Many stay here after graduation. This infusion of human capital bolsters local economies with the knowledge base required for success in the 21st century.

TICUA members educate students in a timely fashion which means making available additional intellectual capital for Tennessee in a shorter period of time. Tennessee's private colleges are producing a wide range of leaders such as engineers, nurses, and teachers needed now.

At the heart of TICUA colleges and universities is a mission of service. This service extends to communities surrounding our institutions. Our colleges and universities provide volunteers, work force development, and cultural activities to many Tennesseans.

TICUA member institutions are proud to serve the citizens of Tennessee and remain committed to helping Tennessee improve in every facet possible.

Sincerely,

Claude O. Pressnell, Jr., Ed.D.

TICUA Highlights

Since 1794,

before Tennessee was admitted into the Union, private colleges have been serving the citizens of the Volunteer State.

Today, Tennessee's 36 private colleges educate over 57,000 students
and employ over 28,000 faculty and staff.

TICUA member institutions gave students over

$230 million dollars

last year so they could afford to attend a private college in Tennessee.

At the heart of TICUA colleges and universities is a mission of service.

Faculty, staff, students, and alumni volunteer their time to assist in areas such as adult literacy, early childhood education, and community development.

A wide range of academic programs

are offered across the State to meet the needs of the local community as well as the human capital needs of the State.
These programs range from forestry and fine arts to mortuary science and museum studies.

Economic Impact

TICUA's 36 member institutions each year spend over $2 billion dollars in fulfilling their missions which emphasize various aspects of teaching, research, and service. This translates into an economic impact of over $5 billion dollars every year.

Tennessee's private colleges educate over 57,000 students and employ over 28,000 faculty and staff.

The 28,000 individuals who compose the institutional faculty and staff generate an additional 14,000 jobs across the cities and towns where TICUA member institutions provide their services.

$230 million dollars in institutional aid goes to students who excel academically as well as those who have financial need. This aid helps offset the need for students to borrow for their education. TICUA members remain committed to assisting qualified students.

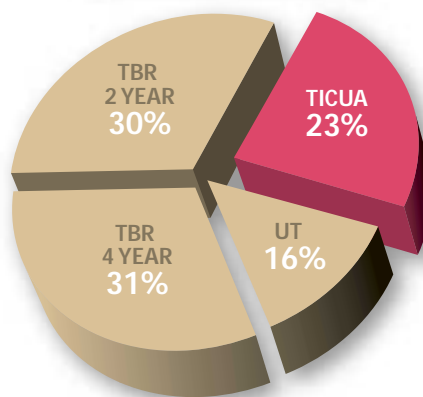

Student Enrollment

Over 12,000 degrees ranging from Associate to Doctoral are awarded each year at the 36 TICUA member institutions. These degrees account for 31% of degrees awarded in Tennessee while the enrollment is just 23%. The ability to educate students in a timely fashion means additional human capital for Tennessee in a shorter period of time. In fact, TICUA member institutions import enough students from other states to replace those Tennesseans choosing to attend college outside Tennessee. Tennessee's private colleges are producing today the engineers, nurses, and teachers needed now.

Growth in Different Kinds of Grant Aid 1990 - 2003

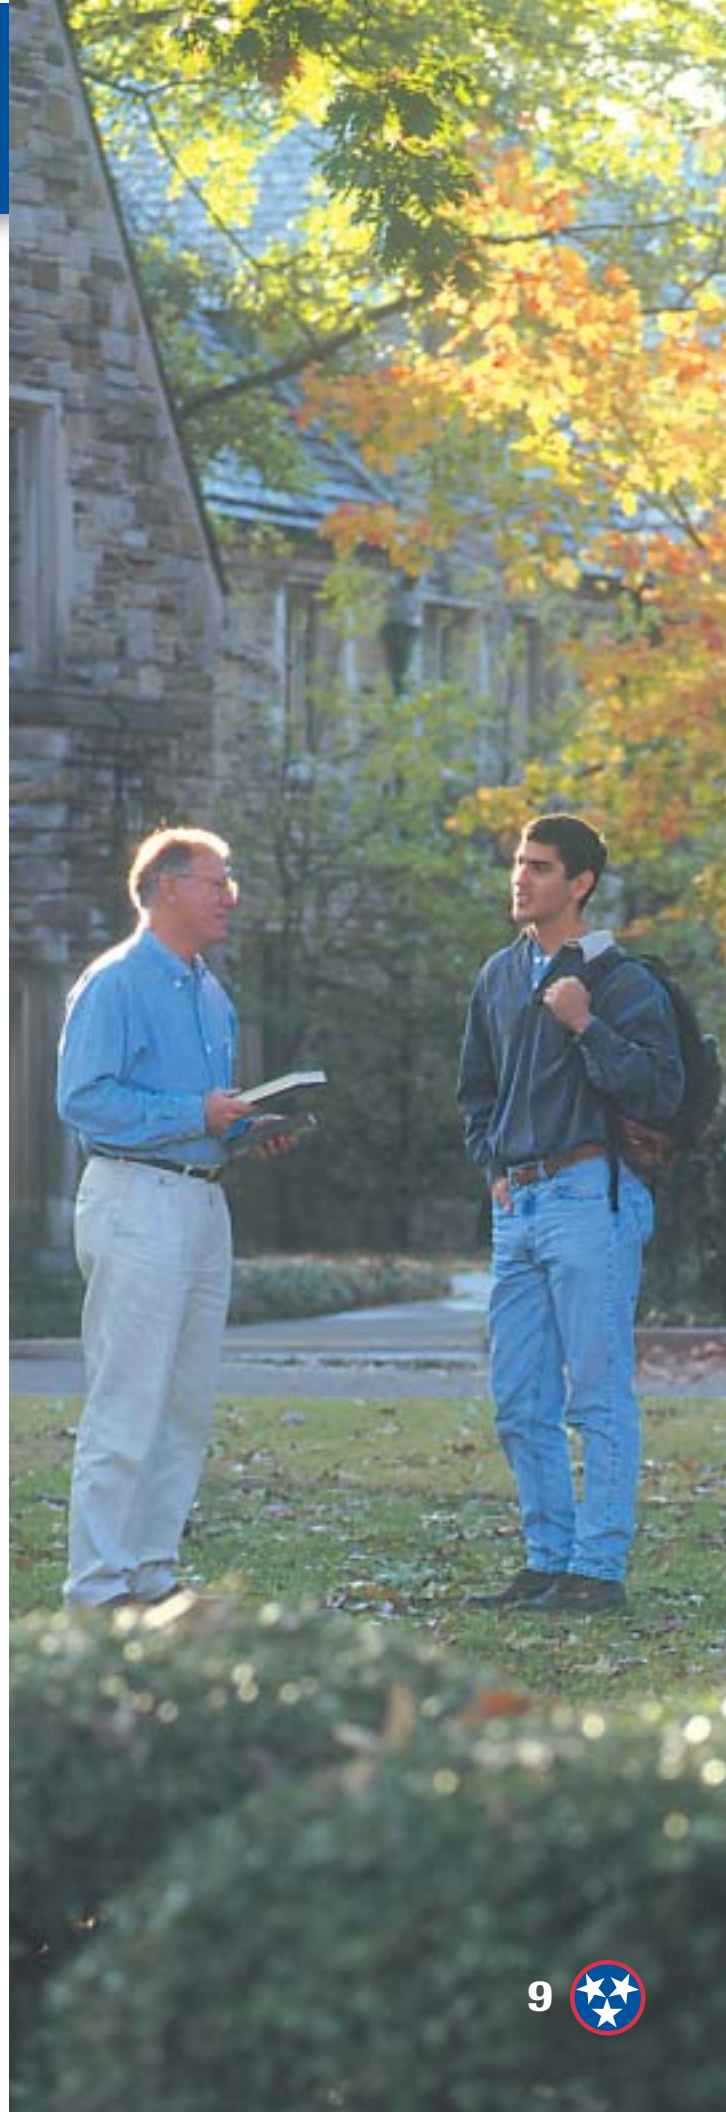

Student enrollment has been increasing for the past 10 years. Many TICUA member institutions have as a strategic goal to increase their student enrollment. These institutions stand ready to enroll an additional 5,000 students by 2010.

45% of all First Professional degrees in Tennessee are awarded by TICUA member institutions.

Over 80% of students at TICUA member institutions receive financial assistance.

Service To Tennessee

At the heart of TICUA colleges and universities is a mission of service. This service extends beyond the students working on a degree to the surrounding community. Faculty, staff, alumni, and students of TICUA colleges and universities volunteer their time to assist in areas such as adult literacy, early childhood education, and community development.

TICUA member institutions

provide work force development education and training for a large number of occupations which are needed in Tennessee including doctors, scientists, engineers, teachers, nurses, funeral directors, artists, and ministers. Many institutions offer these programs during the evening or weekends as well as on-site at a number of corporations, making it easier for Tennesseans to further their education.

Thousands of activities, most open to the community, take place each year on the TICUA member campuses. From academic lectures to athletic competition an accessible array of cultural events are provided for local communities all across the State.

A significant and historical strength of TICUA member institutions centers on health care and teacher education. During the past decade over 20,000 professionals

have earned degrees in these fields. These alumni can be found in every community in the state helping to heal and educate Tennesseans.

2003 Scholarship Programs

BellSouth offers twenty $1,000 scholarships to students attending four-year liberal arts and sciences colleges in their service area.

Maytag offers a total of eight $1,200 scholarships for those studying science in the Jackson and Cleveland areas.

In 2000, the Conwood Company Charitable Trust established a $10,000 scholarship program to assist students attending independent colleges and universities in Middle and West Tennessee. Ten schools select an outstanding student who exhibits financial need and a commitment to developing leadership skills to receive the $1,000 scholarship award.

Pilot funds five $1,000 scholarships for needy deserving students in the greater Knoxville area.

State Farm Insurance established a $5,000 scholarship program to assist business and information systems students as they prepare to enter Tennessee's thriving business community. Five institutions from across the state select one qualified student to receive $1,000 to be applied to college expenses.

Dollar General provides a number of competitive campus-based grants for volunteer programs which enhance the advancement of literacy.

General Shale provides five $1,000 scholarships for needy deserving students attending an independent college or university in upper east Tennessee.

United Parcel Service funds a generous program of thirty-five scholarships. These scholarships are directed to needy deserving students.

Home Federal Bank of Tennessee offers four $1,000 scholarships for students in the Knoxville area.

Founded in 1849 by Methodist leaders, Hiwassee College is Tennessee's only private, residential, liberal arts college with a special focus on the first two years of higher education. Located in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains, its beautiful pastoral campus provides the perfect setting for a close-knit living and learning community, and its mission of over 150 years has been to provide a Christian educational environment that nurtures students' mental, physical, social and spiritual potentials. With "dedicated to great beginnings" as its motto, Hiwassee faculty and staff are committed to encouraging students to strive for both personal and academic excellence by offering an extraordinary degree of personalized attention both in and out of the classroom. In addition to a first-rate honors program and an increasingly popular nursing program in association with Lincoln Memorial University, Hiwassee offers forty-four additional university parallel programs of study leading to the A.A. or A.S. degree and three career/vocational programs of study leading to the A.A.S. degree.

Johnson Bible College provides a quality education in a Christian environment. Offering associate, bachelor's and master's degrees, the College holds to the principle that academic excellence is not inconsistent with personal commitment or faithfulness to the Word of God. JBC was founded over a century ago to educate Christian ministers and church leaders. Today its mission includes programs in such fields as teacher education, counseling, media communications, and cross-cultural service. The College is unique in that most single students, married student families, faculty and staff live on campus, making the campus a Christian community of nearly 1,000.

Tennessee Wesleyan College takes great pride in providing students from across the Southeastern United States with quality, yet affordable education. As an institution offering both liberal arts and pre-professional programs, the TWC curriculum gives students great flexibility in pursuing their career goals. A low faculty-to-student ratio allows students to be known as individuals and provides them the opportunity to develop life-long relationships with both faculty and peers. Tennessee Wesleyan encourages its students to be involved in student activities both on campus and in the community. Expanding its offerings to a larger community, TWC provides baccalaureate programs and continuing education programs from campus branches in nearby Chattanooga and Knoxville.

Founded in 1794, Tusculum College is Tennessee's oldest college. Yet, its outlook and spirit are visionary. One of three colleges in the United States to adopt a focused calendar, Tusculum asks its students and faculty to concentrate on one course at a time. Through a vital, service-oriented curriculum, the college seeks to contribute to a revitalization of American democracy by graduating men and women with the skills, knowledge, and practical wisdom to participate effectively as citizens of their hometowns, their nation, and the world. To this end, Tusculum recast the liberal arts with the name Civic Arts. A competency program documents a student's abilities in nine areas including communication and critical thinking.

Committed to the task of providing education in the liberal arts tradition, Union University builds on its framework of Christian ideals to educate students of quality and character. The ultimate goal of the curriculum is the full development of each individual student so that he or she might take on responsible and creative roles in society. Union, a Southern Baptist institution, endeavors to give an articulate and vigorous witness to the Christian faith as the unifying principle around which one can relate learning to life. Union's modern campus facilitates the learning process and unifies the student body by bringing all members of the campus community together in several closely-linked academic buildings.

The University of the South, or Sewanee, as it is popularly known, offers a challenging and stimulating program in the liberal arts. The emphasis at Sewanee is on the mastery of fundamental disciplines. Degree requirements in literature and the arts, mathematics and natural sciences, history and social sciences, and philosophy and religion are rigorous and extensive. While honoring its Episcopal heritage, the undergraduate College of Arts and Sciences is nonsectarian in its teaching and recruiting of students and faculty. The campus' unified design of Gothic architecture lends the Sewanee community a feel of old England. The University's domain of 10,000 acres sits on the western face of the Cumberland Plateau. This location affords students an amazing variety of recreational opportunities and outdoor pursuits.
